

The Round Barn

This unique building was originally designed by the clever Shakers at Hancock, Massachusetts. It was built to house and feed cattle. This copy of that barn houses Heritage Plantation's collection of antique cars, a small movie theater and an animated diorama of a famous dirt-track race featuring Barney Oldfield.

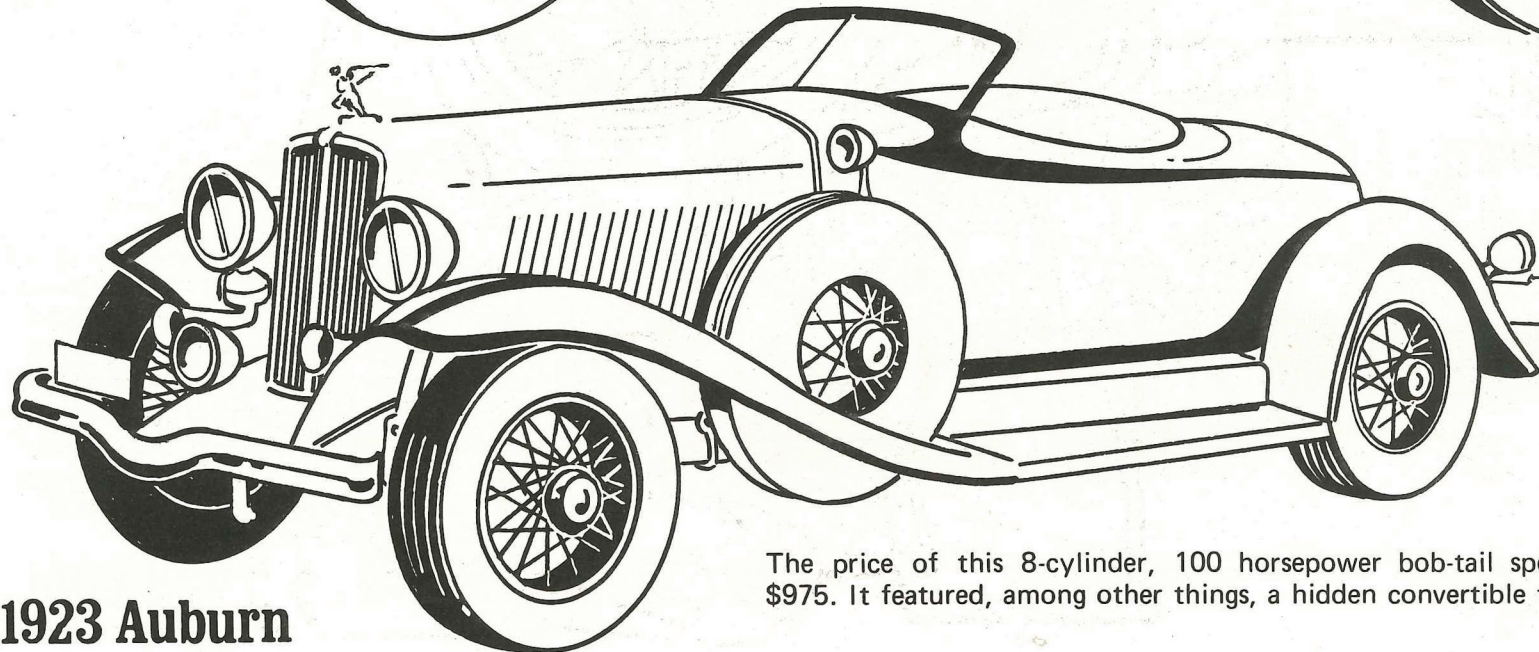

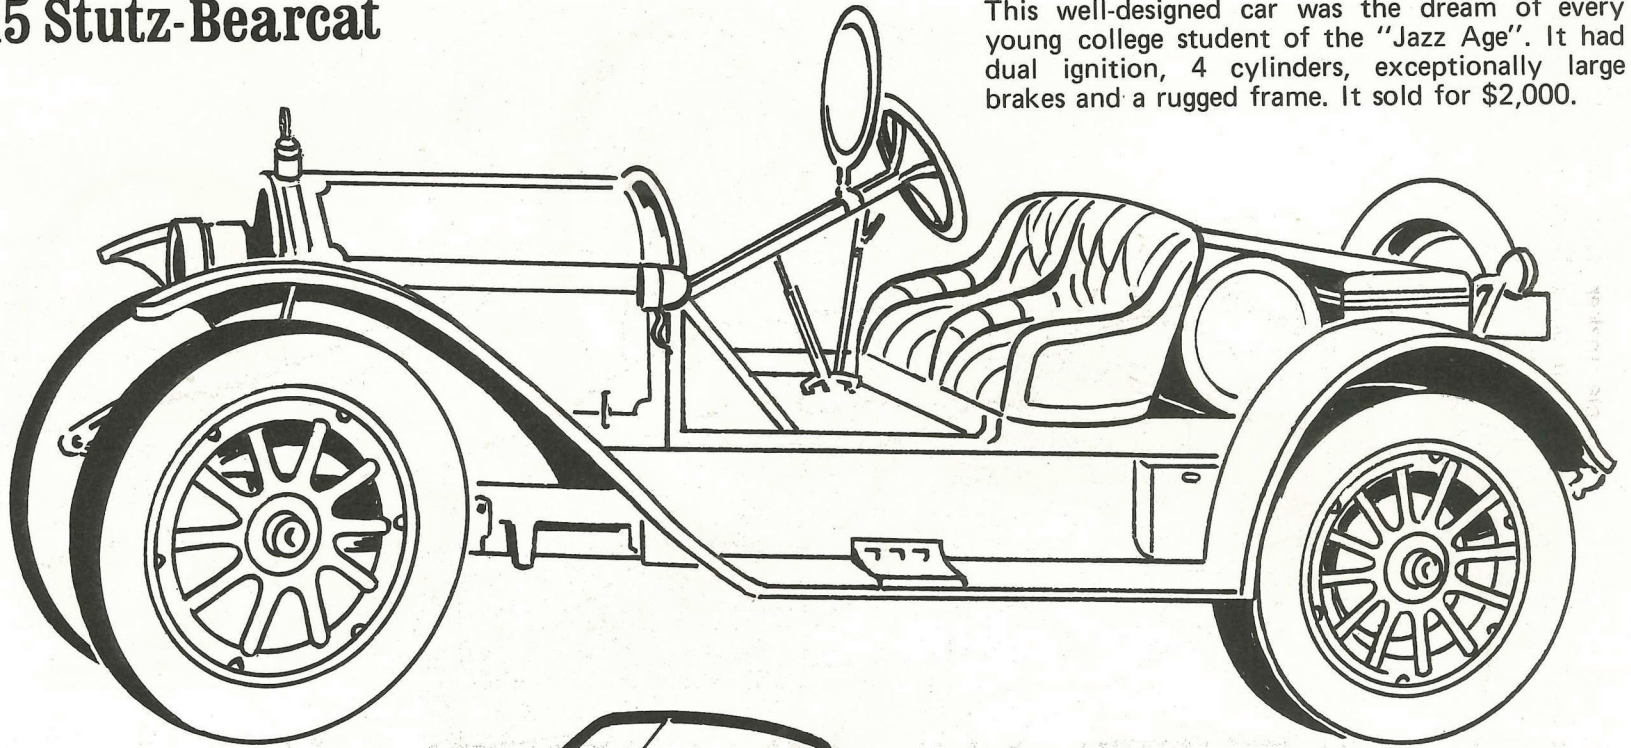

1899 Winton

Alexander Winton was a Cleveland bicycle maker who became a great pioneer auto builder. His first cars were built in 1898. This Winton one-cylinder family carriage originally sold for $1,500.

1915 Stutz-Bearcat

This well-designed car was the dream of every young college student of the "Jazz Age". It had dual ignition, 4 cylinders, exceptionally large brakes and a rugged frame. It sold for $2,000.

The price of this 8-cylinder, 100 horsepower bob-tail speedster was only $975. It featured, among other things, a hidden convertible top.

1909 Reo

Ransome E. Olds wanted the car that bore his name to be small and inexpensive, but he couldn't get his partner to agree. Mr. Olds left the Oldsmobile Company and started a new firm. His first car, in 1904, had an 8-horsepower engine and sold for $650. A later model, pictured here, had a 20-horsepower engine and sold for $1,050.
